Read what some of her students have to say:

Stained glass has always fascinated me but I was hesitant to try my hand at this centuries-old art form. Shan had me and my classmates up and running in no time. With a single project she taught the proper use of the tools, the three essential cuts, foiling, and basic soldering techniques. Through it all Shan was encouraging and never far away if you needed that experienced hand. I'm having the time of my life!

"Shan is enthusiastic and knowledgeable with the ability to inspire you to expand your skills. She is there for you during each step of the project providing hands on instruction and advice; I enjoy her classes and the support of Shan and the other students."

Oh what can we say about the FUN we've had!

Shan at Raspberry Patch Art Glass has a fun way with her personality and patience to teach the art of stain glass with a relaxed atmosphere. I have learned to appreciate the art of stain glass through my classes with Shan and enjoy several pieces I have made with her. It is also fun when your friends see your projects and they are so impressed you made it, actually I get impressed myself when I look at it and realize I made it. Jill L.

I took beginners stain glass class 25 years ago at a craft store in the local mall. Now that my children are grown I decided to take another class. What a difference! Shan is a wonderful teacher. I have learned so much more about working with stained glass at the Raspberry Patch Art Glass studio! Shan has all the equipment and supplies to make whatever your heart desires. We have a wonderful time in her studio. The classes are so affordable. I bought two broken stained glass windows at a garage sale and was able to completely rebuild them. Now I am looking forward to creating a window of my own design for each of my four children's homes.
